Back in the Saddle

Well, the school year is well underway, and I'm sure you are all back in the swing of things. Providers' Network is too! I would like to announce the formation of a new "planning committee" which consists of a few people who have been members for a very long time and who are continuously involved at meetings. The committee had a fantastic meeting on October 9th, and has created a year of events that you will love!

We also decided that a new format for some of the meetings would be useful. We will have "roundtable discussions" or "chat sessions" or whatever it is you want to call them. Instead of having speakers for all meetings, we will get together and talk about topics that we have concerns/problems in common, and try to create solutions.

Another new and wonderful happening is the creation of a group in the Chicago Metro-West area, expanding our current Chicago Metro-South to the west. This will give our members in the western suburb area an opportunity to get together closer to home. More information on this will be coming soon!
